Hawks...

It may have been Hancock North Central's usual strong finish or it may have been the spark supplied by Ronnie Souder who rejoined the Hawks a couple of weeks ago after being ineligible most of the season. Whatever it was, one thing is certain. The Hawks snatched away another District 8 Class A championship last week and are now contending for the South Mississippi Class A title, next step toward another state championship. The district tournament was staged in North Central's gym this year.

Captain Roland Leamer's team had a so-so season this year, all of last season's big guns having graduated. The Hawks were state Class A champs last year and just missed winning the overall title. But no one figured them to finish in the money this season.

But, like the champs they are, they reared back and fooled the experts. In the opening round Wednesday they uncorked Leakesville, 76-39. Next, they pulverized Purvis, 81-78, Friday night and in the finals Saturday night they out-rebbed the Rebels from Notre Dame of Biloxi, 73-62.

In the girls' finals, also on Saturday, Leakesville watered down Purvis, 42-33. All four finalists advanced to the south tournament this week, the boys playing at Jones Junior College at Ellenville and the girls at Brandon.

The Hawks, after advancing to the semi-finals, lost to powerful Leakesville girls, 47-26, Friday night.

The Hawks return to the wars at 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, facing Brandon, runner-up in District 6. If they win, they will face the Rebels in the final.

Pearlton overloads in effort to comply

The battle of the school building fund budget reopened with renewed vigor Saturday when county trustees approved a resolution authorizing their county superintendent, Robert F. Lodner, to make application for almost half a million dollars under Public Law 815.

These funds, applicable to systems suffering under an impact of federally connected children, will be used to provide additional classrooms and a multi-purpose physical training building at the recently completed Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, Pearlton. Library renovations and classrooms at Gulfview and additional classrooms and renovations at North Central.

Plans for such additions and renovations were displayed by Robert Darwood Ladner, Gulfport architect, who was retained at $500 to both draw up the plans and assist in making application. William S. Goldman, Bay St. Louis engineer, was also retained. His fee of $250 is to cover surveying and load testing of roofs at the North Central facility. Several of these are in urgent need of repair or, in some cases, replacement.

Darwood Ladner said he had planned for the maximum.

Mix lack cited in HEW chop

Superintendent Joe D. McCullough of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District confirmed this week that future federal aid has been cancelled until it shows more progress in racial integration. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare notified him the school system will be given a hearing but no date was set. Meanwhile McCullough has been consulting with the district's attorney, Sam L. Fovre, Jr., on what steps to take. He said HEW wants more colored students in the schools and teachers on the faculty but did not specify in what numbers.

Federal aid this year amounts to about $125,000 but McCullough noted it is a variable figure. For example, he said, the system would not be eligible for building money under the impacted area program because of student enrollment.

Right now it participates in the poverty program, Public Law 874 and 815 dealing with maintenance and operation and building aid in government impacted areas; National Defense Education Administration reimbursement of 50 per cent in equipment for math, science, English and history, computer property and vocational training.

In effect, McCullough said, the system has been put on the deferred list. It is still participating in the various programs but can't get in any new money until there is more integration.

Supervisors, justices of the peace and constables will run at large in this year's elections with only minor shifts in present district boundaries, attorneys advised the board of supervisors Monday.

The big issue unless the federal courts rule otherwise in the current suit to redistrict Hancock County. The three-judge panel considering the case is apparently awaiting a decision from the U.S. Supreme Court on whether the one man, one vote doctrine applies at the local level. Attorneys observed there is no way of knowing when the ruling will come and it could easily confuse the June filing deadline for the Aug. 8 Democratic primary.

State Rep. Walter J. Phillips, one of the supervisors' lawyers in county redistricting, noted one federal panel is re-writing the legislature's reapportionment scheme and he doesn't know what area he'll run from this summer. It might well put Hancock in with Pearl River County, he observed.

At the request of Tax Assessor George Helzmann who needs to know the new beat lines to prepare his 1967 land rolls, the board authorized advertising for bids on preparation of a new county map defining the district and precinct boundaries it voted in last October.

Ruble Griffin, attorney for the board, advised that tax rolls should show the special two mill levies of the present Beas 4 and 5. Those levies will continue with the property, whatever beat it is in but do not apply to persons moved into the beats by redistricting.

Beat 3 Supervisor Charles Lavinghouse remarked that additional sets of election managers would have to be provided to count the votes with at-large balloting on the three constitutional officers. With normal heavy voting in the first primary, they might have to stay there well past the next dawn to complete the tally, he said.

Authorization was granted to the port and harbor commission to issue a proceed order for work on the port works as soon as the weather is favorable and timber has been cleared, to move on details to speed construction of the new airport and accept the low bid of Gulf States Laboratories at $2,556.50 for soil tests at the flying field. Dr. A. K. Martinovich, Jr., port president, said the commission is trying to get the

Waveland tax hike

Waveland voters gave overwhelming approval Tuesday to doubling the town's sales tax from one-half per cent to a full one per cent. The increase goes into effect March 1.

A scant 167 votes were cast out of a registration in excess of 1,000. Of these 143 were in favor of the increase and 22 were opposed. This amounted to 87 per cent for the hike and 13 per cent against it.

Waveland got $9,000 last year from its old rate. It was one of the few municipalities in Mississippi levying only half a per cent.

Patient load, pay climb at hospital

A $25 raise for registered nurses and 10 cent an hour addition to cover uniform costs for the entire employee were authorized by trustees of Hancock General Hospital at their February meeting last Wednesday night.

The hike for the RNs puts them at $4.25 an hour and brings them in line with those at Gulfport Memorial Hospital. With 12 RNs now on the staff this will run to $500 a month. It will go into effect with the new pay package.

The other compensation for uniforms for the kitchen staff, nurses and nurses aides in line with the new minimum wage law. Administrator H. J. Blockledge was informed the hospital can stop now at $1 an hour if it furnishes uniforms.

Treasurer John D. Rankin, Jr., advanced the employee's own uniforms, rather than sending them. His plan passed after extensive discussion of the features. It involves about 30 employees and will cost $500 a month.

The hospital chalked up its busiest month on record during January with an average daily patient load of 64.4, treated were informed. Blockledge announced it takes 1,200 patient days a month to break even with expenses. In January, 1966, daily average was $4.6 while the December figure was $5.8. Highest census last month was 51. December's was 47 and the previous January was 45. Medicare admissions totaled 28 for 501 patient days.

Trimming $1,300,000 tab on road work faces city

Estimating the $1.8 million primary estimate for the repairs and widening of city streets to now in progress at City Hall, Commissioner of Utilities J. Cyril Glover said this week.

Consulting engineers on the project, Koller, Jordan and Goldman of Natchez, and W.S. Goldman, local engineer, met last Thursday with Commissioner. The $4-page preliminary report was presented to the city just before Christmas.

Glover said total cost of the work includes $600,000 for drainage. It covers the 38 miles of streets in the city.

Type of material used in the base is one area the city hopes to trim costs. Glover disclosed Council had been assured that the county will assist with the program but to what extent is not yet known.

City officials are continuing their search for government aid on various aspects of the work. An application has been made to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in Atlanta.

With progress report

North Central principal denounces P-TA charges

The high school principal of North Central has been charged with an average of 41 charges per year over the past four years to 16 in the last school year.

This incident came as part of a progress report delivered to the Hancock County School Board Saturday by J. W. Rodriguez, principal.

Rodriguez said the report was in answer to certain complaints originating from a Parent-Teacher Assn. session the previous Monday. He said faculty members had been asked to leave their normal business had been conducted and a special meeting was called. From this came the charges that the school was expending its entire educational achievement year on a report, that it had become a social instead of educational institution, that the teachers were, in fact, no longer teaching, that grades had been given, and that the school was in a state of chaos.

Twelve hours of this incident after receiving a delegation of North Central parents, with their children, who claimed excessive and had been displayed in the administration of disciplinary measures. Attorney Joseph Bevenant, now Youth Court judge, appeared on behalf of the parents and students in what he termed was his "official capacity."

No action was taken on the complaint as a doctor who had examined the students was not available to give evidence. At Bevenant's request, consideration was deferred until 9 a.m. Saturday, March 4.

In the report, Rodriguez claimed to receive complaints from the P-TA that the school was expending its entire educational achievement year on a report, that it had become a social instead of educational institution, that the teachers were, in fact, no longer teaching, that grades had been given, and that the school was in a state of chaos.

He said the "faculty was under a social supervision in its teaching and it was conducting a system of classroom visitations and teacher evaluations. This was to correct any weak spots in the teacher's approach to any subject, he added.

In addition, he said the school was 73 teachers with their backgrounds, degrees, and with their master's or better and only four with a "B" certificate. "Over 50 per cent of the high school faculty hold master's degrees," he said.

On curriculum, Rodriguez said the school had modernized its curriculum in modern mathematics, modern science, modern history, modern art and modern physical education program in the elementary school that was being used as a model for the entire state.

"Our library is in greater use than at any time in the past and our library program, with instruction utilizing such aids as films and filmstrips, is proving of great value," he continued.

After outlining the reading program the principal said another academic achievement in the fact that 23 students attended the Beta Club convention in Jackson this year compared with seven last year. The numbers of students qualifying for the honor roll had increased and over the year the work system had been improved. had increased and over the year the work system had been improved. He said the school was expending its entire educational achievement year on a report, that it had become a social instead of educational institution, that the teachers were, in fact, no longer teaching, that grades had been given, and that the school was in a state of chaos.

He said the "faculty was under a social supervision in its teaching and it was conducting a system of classroom visitations and teacher evaluations. This was to correct any weak spots in the teacher's approach to any subject, he added.

In addition, he said the school was 73 teachers with their backgrounds, degrees, and with their master's or better and only four with a "B" certificate. "Over 50 per cent of the high school faculty hold master's degrees," he said.

On curriculum, Rodriguez said the school had modernized its curriculum in modern mathematics, modern science, modern history, modern art and modern physical education program in the elementary school that was being used as a model for the entire state.

blast ruling of top court

World War I Veterans, in a resolution adopted at its Feb. 9 meeting, has deplored as "disgraceful" the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling that public school teachers—or any other civil servants—cannot be fired solely because they are members of the Communist Party.

"Our boys are dying in Vietnam fighting Communists and we in our country are favoring the Communists," declared the resolution by Hancock Barracks 253. The motion was offered by Milton Darel and seconded by Albert Merdler.

The Supreme Court had ruled 5-4 in a case coming from New York State. The decision of Jan. 23 described the state's scheme for barring subversives from the school system as "a highly efficient terror mechanism" and a menace to academic freedom.

Originally scheduled to be fired mid-March, the test version of the first stage booster for the Saturn V/Apollo moon shot rocket.

Unlike the S-II program, the S-IC effort operates under a lesser degree of priority. First flight version to be acceptance tested at Michoud. It will be shipped to MTF as soon as stand testing is complete. The

The attorney pondered whether starting the pier at the water's edge would violate the ordinance since a primary purpose of it was to keep the new sand berm clear for county maintenance.

Subsequently Logan McConnell presented drawings of the Oak Blvd. Pier Assn. for rebuilding their structure in conformity with his interpretation of the ordinance. It complies with the 11-foot average feature over the water with 18-foot pilings and a graduated approach over the sand.

County Engineer George Wier reported on negotiations with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads for matching money to repair Hurricane Betsy's damage to the beach road.

The bureau has advised it will review his plans before the actual money is set up and Wier hopes to get more than first indicated. He was reminded that the supervisors must be prepared to maintain the mound. Guarding of the mound is now estimated about Jan. 1.

Supervisor R.G. Hubbard, Jr., of Beat 5 reiterated his objection to omitting fencing between the road and the sand berm because of the potential danger of small children being hurt by motorists. The bureau wants the existing guard rails out and cost of any type of fencing is considered prohibitive.

Wier figures the 6-inch curb which will be 20 inches wide and pointed lines on the pavement should keep motorists in line.

Plans for the necessary forms to cash one course of money. How to document the impact created by location here of Mississippi Test Facility is under consideration following a conference last week with NASA officials. In Washington, D. C., Congressman William Colmer is pushing for a review of the labor situation to see if Boy St. Louis can qualify under Economic Development Administration criteria.

Memphis Glover reported the February sales tax rebate from the state was $2,000 less than the same month last year. This reflected December business. The commission could have believed Boy St. Louis' sales were in better shape that month than a year ago but noted the steady trend out to U.S. 90.

The commission proposals conservatively will ease tax. Glover estimated sales tax from the proposed area would double present collections. The ordinance is to be adopted as soon as the description is ready of the streets and bounds.

This month's sales tax check was $5,651.17. It was $7,603.11 in February, 1956. January's sales were $6,026.65 against $6,653.14 for the same month last year.

dispute under contract by the end of this fiscal year to assure use of its federal grant and to improve chances for getting more money next year on the job. Authorization for the commission to proceed with several districts rather than waiting for the supervisors' sanction each time might make the difference with the tight time schedule, he explained.

The board approved the transfer of $10,000 from 16th Street fund, accrued from timber sales, to the county school building fund. Phillips, school board member, explained the system would mean money to pay for the building program because it had run into several unanticipated additional charges.

Supervisors said they could do nothing about an agreement signed by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Noble in Bayville Post. The property had been occupied with a house in it when Halseman checked in last year. The Noble's attorney said the building had been erroneously placed on the list by a pre-arranged memorandum and was subsequently burned.

At the request of W.W. McLean, president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, a $4,000 cash award was made for the building and distribution of the building. The award was made to the county. The award was made to the county.

Letters on county Men bonds on new $45 were applied to Mrs. Samantha Keller, John and Rita Marx and Fred Hill, and advertising directed for the county agency office.

Unbeaten SSC juniors end season

The fabulous St. Stanislaus junior varsity ended its season with two big wins last week, beating Car Jesu, 70-61, at New Orleans and St. Augustine Seminary here, 72-66, bringing its season record to 18 wins and no losses.

The varsity Ro-kachows lost their final game to Car Jesu, 68-64, and closed the season with an 11-10 record.

Playing for the juniors, Mike Moyers, a great all-around player, finished the season with 237 points for a 16.5 game average. Mike Gamelli was second high scorer with 223 points and a 12.5 average. The team scored 945 points for a 54.6 average while holding their opponents to 702 points and a 39.1 average.

The juniors beat Chalmette, Ben Franklin, St. Bernard, Cor Jesu and Sam Barthe, all of New Orleans. Notre Dame of Bloud, Cathedral Prep of Baton Rouge, La., St. John of Gulfport, Our Lady of Victory, Pascagoula, D'iberville, and St. Augustine. They include Class A, AA, and, in Louisiana, AAA teams. Some they beat twice.

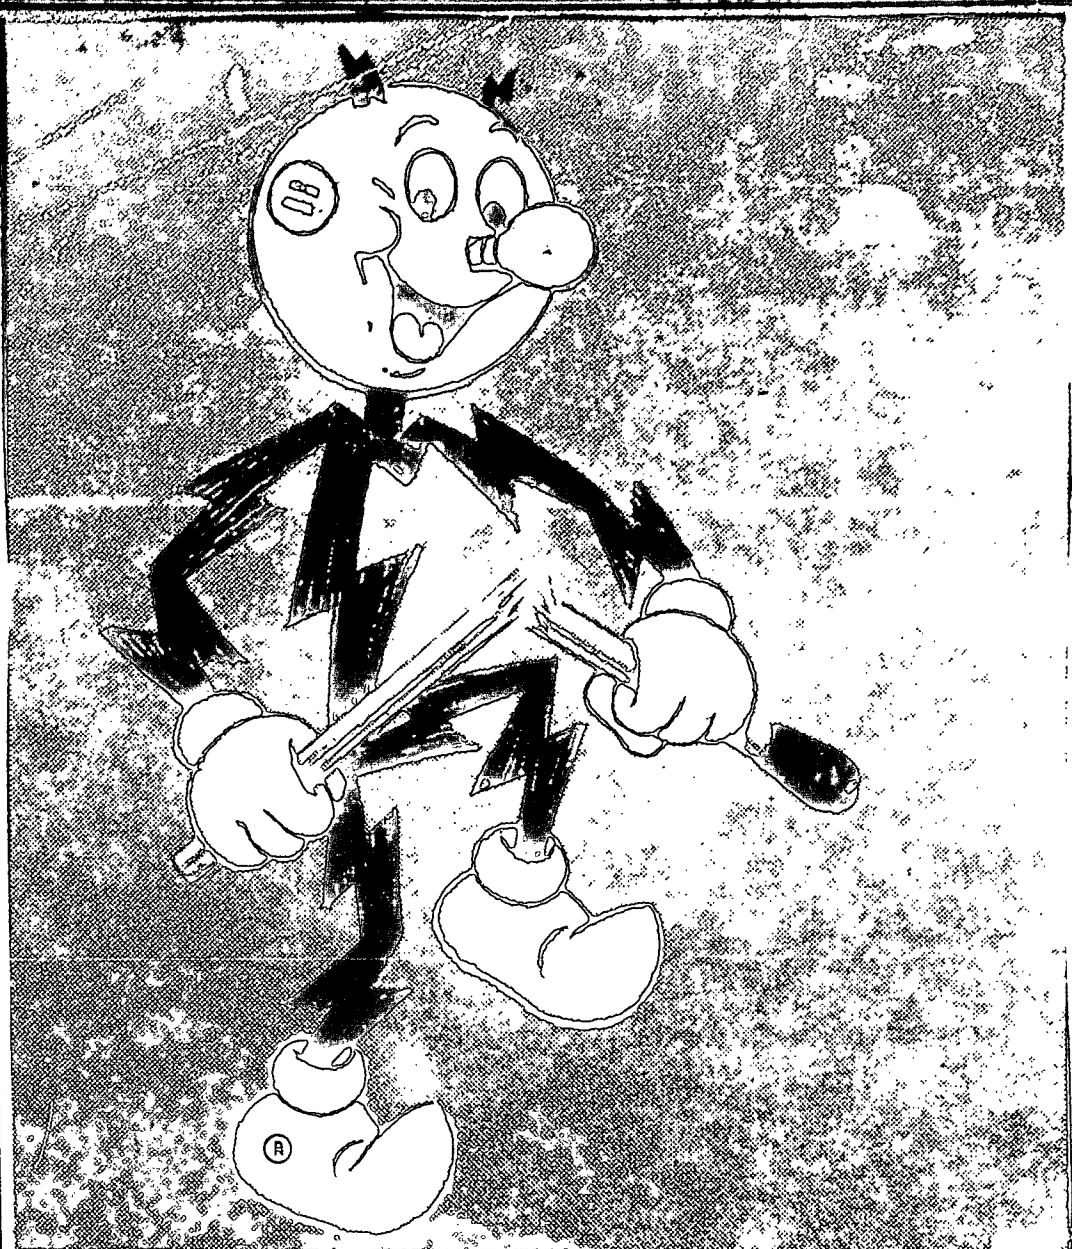

"This team has the most powerful offensive punch of any team I have ever coached," coach Billy Murphy commented after the last game, adding that it will form a good nucleus for next year's varsity. Murphy will lose two of his best men through graduation, Pat Quinlan and Mario Lovisa.

As others see it...

(Cont. from Page 6-B.) Incubus which breaks the back of the mail carrier and chews the most glaring failure to pay, its way, to the villain in this piece.

Rep. Ken Kichler, D-W. Va., points out that under current rates, first-class mail pays more than 100 per cent of the cost of delivery, while third-class mail pays only 50 per cent. In other words, ordinary letter-writers are underwriting half the cost of delivering to their homes the flood of unwanted "junk" that clogs up their mail boxes and usually finds its way into the garbage can.

Why does the department plan to penalize a profitable branch of the service and continue to allow junk mail to be handled at a deficit? Don't blame the Post Office Department - blame the Congress. Under the Postal Policy Act of 1950, first-class mail and the mail forwarders are required to pay their way, while other classes of mail are not.

If you agree with what this is to a mailman's unfair position, spread a few nickels now to write your congressman and your senators. Ask for reform of the 1950 Policy Act. Urge them to make all classifications of the mail, service pay their way - with special reference to uncollected advertising matter that is properly called "junk mail."

And while you're at it, you might suggest that the reports of the House Committee made 17 years ago on moderating the postal service are still collecting dust on the shelves of Congress. •Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Examiner

Building fund drive launched for Camp Onward

A $75,000 building fund campaign which includes plans for major repairs and reconstruction of Camp Onward, located on South Beach, was announced last week by Maurice M. Stora, Kingsley House building fund campaign chairman.

Stora said many of the repairs made after Hurricane Betsy affected Camp Onward to operate last year, but a major overhauling job has to be done. For almost 50 years, Camp Onward has been an important supplement to the Kingsley House program in New Orleans.

Stora said the Kingsley House families, the chairman said, have looked forward to the few weeks spent at the camp each year as the high point of their lives; they look back on their camping days at Onward

International village group names choices

Nominees for the delegation to attend the International Village in Austria this summer were introduced recently at a meeting of the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Children's International Summer Villages, Inc., in Gulfport.

The nominees are all 14-year-old children from 25 elementary schools on the Gulf Coast from Ocean Springs to Waveland. Hancock County nominees are Nancy Evans and Gregory Rowman, Waveland; Kathleen Whitman, St. Clare's School; Jenny Baber and Estby Parker, Christ Episcopal Day School.

All will participate in meetings, interviews and other activities prior to final selection. Four delegates, two boys and two girls will attend the village. They will be accompanied by an adult delegation.

Part delegates have attended villages in Holland, France, Sweden and Mexico.

SEE & HEAR

- WHITE SLAVERY ... means big business and big money in the Greater New Orleans area. A call girl tells how the "oldest profession" is operated in our town.
- EXTORTION ... is a by-product of the call girl racket in New Orleans. Scores of men are extorted of thousands of dollars each year, and they pay off because of fear of being exposed. A streetwalker tells the complete story.
- WISE IS WISE ... no matter whether it's prostitution, or gambling. Gambling laws of Louisiana are examined and experts point out the danger of organized crime in gambling.

Channel 4 News Reporter BILL EUGEN brings New Orleans one of the boldest, most graphic, and completely unensored pictures of crime and criminals in the history of New Orleans television.
